STRUCTURE OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

- The 132 member Ohio General Assembly is a bicameral (two-house) legislature composed of:
  - The House of Representatives, made up of 99 representatives; and
  - The Senate, made up of 33 senators.
- Each legislator represents a different district in the state.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY DISTRICTS

- Each House district has about 119,186 residents.
(11,799,448 Ohio residents ÷ 99 representatives)
- Each Senate district has about 357,559 residents.
(11,799,448 Ohio residents ÷ 33 senators)
  - Each Senate district is made up of three adjacent House districts.
- See House Members by District
- See Senate Members by District

GENERAL ASSEMBLY REDISTRICTING

- General Assembly district boundaries are redrawn every 10 years (in years ending in “1”), as provided in Article XI of the Ohio Constitution.
- The Ohio Redistricting Commission is responsible for drawing those districts.
- Boundaries are redrawn based on updated population data from the U.S. Census and according to other constitutional standards.
- At times, districts also must be redrawn partway through a decade under constitutional or court-ordered procedures.

CONGRESSIONAL REDISTRICTING

- Similarly, Ohio's congressional district boundaries are redrawn every 10 years, as provided in Article XIX of the Ohio Constitution, based on updated population data and other constitutional standards.
- The General Assembly is responsible for adopting congressional district maps in the form of a bill.
- If the General Assembly does not meet the applicable deadlines to do so, the Ohio Redistricting Commission must draw the districts.
- For details about Ohio's General Assembly and congressional redistricting processes, see LSC's Members Brief, "Redistricting in Ohio" (PDF).

ELECTION OF REPRESENTATIVES

- Members of the House of Representatives serve two-year terms.
- Elections are held in all 99 House districts in November of every even-numbered year.

ELECTION OF SENATORS

- Members of the Senate serve four-year terms.
- In every even-numbered year, elections are held in about half the Senate districts.
- All 16 even-numbered districts hold elections at once, then all 17 odd-numbered districts hold elections two years later.

FILLING VACANCIES

- When a House seat becomes vacant during a term, the vacancy is filled by appointment. The members of the House who are members of the same political party as the former member select a person to fill the vacancy.
- When a Senate seat becomes vacant during the first 20 months of the term, a special election is held to fill the vacancy.
- When a Senate seat becomes vacant later in the term, the vacancy is filled by appointment in the same manner as a House vacancy.

TERM LIMITS

Under the Ohio Constitution:

- Representatives are limited to four successive two-year terms in the House (eight consecutive years).
- Senators are limited to two successive four-year terms in the Senate (eight consecutive years).
- After a person reaches the term limit for an office, the person must wait four years before running for that office again.
- A person who reaches the term limit in one house of the General Assembly may switch to the other house without waiting four years.

APPOINTEES AND TERM LIMITS

- A member's term limit period for an office only begins when the member is elected to that office.
- If a member is appointed to fill a vacancy for a partial term before being elected to that office, the partial term does not count against the member's term limit.
- As a result, some members serve more than eight years in an office before they are term limited.

BIENNIAL SESSIONS

- Each General Assembly meets for a two-year period (known as a biennium) that begins in January of an odd-numbered year and ends in December of the next year.
- A representative serves for one biennium, while a senator serves for two biennia.
- Each General Assembly is referred to by a number, beginning with the first General Assembly that convened when Ohio became a state in 1803.

ADJOURNMENT SINE DIE

- A particular General Assembly ends when the legislature adjourns sine die, without a day being set for meeting again – typically in December of an even-numbered year.
- Bills not enacted by the end of the General Assembly “die” — they do not become law.
- A bill that dies may be reintroduced during a future General Assembly, but it must start again at the beginning of the legislative process.

SPECIAL SESSIONS

- The Ohio Constitution also allows the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate, acting jointly, or the Governor to call a special session of the General Assembly by issuing a proclamation.
- During a special session, legislative work is limited to the purpose described in the proclamation.
- Special sessions are rare. The last special session occurred in 2004 and addressed the issue of campaign finance.

MAJORITY AND MINORITY CAUCUSES

- A caucus is made up of the members of a house who are members of the same political party.
- The General Assembly has four caucuses:
  - The House Majority (Republican) caucus;
  - The House Minority (Democratic) caucus;
  - The Senate Majority (Republican) caucus;
  - The Senate Minority (Democratic) caucus.
- The leadership structure of the General Assembly is largely based on these four caucuses.
- Legislators sometimes form other types of caucuses based on shared backgrounds or interests.
